

Business Intelligence

The correct information to the right person at the right time!

Today a great deal, more specific huge amounts of data are stored in our IT-systems. Advanced information management, decision support and Business Intelligence can be one of several ways to make a correct decision, analyse and follow up within given timeframes. For many organisations the highest priority is solutions within the decision support area.

One of the most important criteria for a successful implementation is a close cooperation between management, operation and the IT-department. SolarPlexus IT Strategi has many years' experience in as well the IT area as in operation and management. This makes us a reliable and competent partner.